Introduction

Nowadays, the struggle to change the minds and worldviews of more than 2 billion young people¹ is intensifying with the acceleration of globalization and the intensification of socio-legal conflicts in the world. Therefore, this issue is becoming increasingly global and topical, as the level of legal and political culture of young people determines the development of tomorrow². The UN General Assembly has recognized the issue of socio-political education of young people as a priority. There is a need to improve the methodology of raising the morale, legal and political culture of young people based on a creative approach, to create innovative methods and tools, to develop effective mechanisms for the development of this system.

From this point of view, the analysis of methodological aspects of the formation of political culture of young people in the world, as well as ensuring the effectiveness of the system of raising their political culture and the development of its effective mechanisms, forms and methods has become an important issue.

It is also important to increase the level of influence of young people in socio-political life, to develop their political culture on the basis of an innovative creative approach. Today, more than 60% of the country's population is under 30 years old. This is two and a half times more than in other countries. 40% of the population of Uzbekistan is under 18 years old³. Due to the growing attention to youth and their development activities in our country, the President of our country said: "It is known that the upbringing of the younger generation has always been important and relevant. Their upbringing has always been important and topical. But in the 21st century which we live in, this issue is really becoming a matter of life and death¹. One of the most important tasks of our time remains to bring up a new generation of scientists who will adapt to these processes. Particular attention is paid to the implementation of state youth policy and the development of their political culture based on an innovative creative approach, and a number of targeted measures are being implemented. It is known that the improvement of the education system is important for the development of our society. Social factors, including the principles of democracy and humanity, have encouraged members of society to be spiritual nourishment, spiritual support in all countries and at all times. If deep insights into the essence of these principles and values are formed in the family, there is no doubt that they will make a significant positive change in the minds, upbringing, worldview and lifestyle of young people.

Methods such as complex study of historical, logical, system-structural, comparative, sociological, scientific sources, induction and deduction were used in the research.

Methods and Level of Learning

In the nineties, Uzbek scholars began to study not only the impact of political processes on the political image of the individual, but also the impact of the individual on public policy. Also, A. Choriev began a structural analysis of the category of "political culture", while E. Bobomurodov thinks about the peculiarities of political thinking.

In addition, the problems of shaping the political culture of our citizens have been studied to some extent in the scientific research of M. Ahmedova, B. Tuychiev, R. Jumaev, I. Ergashev, N. Khakimov and S. Juraev.

The issue of human intellectual development (emphasis on creativity) has been in the spotlight of scientists and philosophers, historians, psychologists and educators at all stages of the development of human society.

R. Row, E.D. Bono, D.J. Gilford, E. Torrans, K. Rodgers, A. Maslow, F. Barron, S. Sternberg, T. Lubard, Ch. Lendry, K.A. Heller studied the issues of ability formation⁵. At the same time, we can show a number of foreign studies on the formation of political culture, the problems of political education, the contradictions in politics, the role of political parties in society. The analysis of these studies shows that the relationship between the individual and politics is studied in different contexts and from different approaches.

Research Results

Only through this can we see that the spiritual and cultural level of society rises to a higher level as a result of having knowledge of the source character and peculiarities of the political system, the political order prevailing in society, the behavior and political consciousness of social groups, the directions and movements of political processes.

In order to consistently and effectively implement the state youth policy, comprehensively support the youth, radically reform the system of protection of their rights and legitimate interests, the Youth Union of Uzbekistan was established on the basis of the Kamolot youth social movement.

June 30, the day of the establishment of the Youth Union of Uzbekistan, will be celebrated in our country as "Youth Day". The Youth Union of Uzbekistan has identified a number of new and important tasks related to increasing youth participation in the reforms within the Action Strategy for the five priority areas of development of the Republic of Uzbekistan in 2017-2021:

First, to transform the Youth Union of Uzbekistan into a professional structure under the motto "Youth - the builder of the future", providing effective cooperation with government agencies, non-governmental organizations and other civil society institutions in the implementation of state youth policy in the country;

Secondly, to protect the rights, freedoms and legitimate interests of young people, to educate them in the spirit of respect for national and universal values, loyalty to the ideas of independence in their minds and hearts, understanding of national identity, love and concern for the motherland, determination and development of self-sacrifice, protection from various ideological threats;

Today, the Youth Union of Uzbekistan is carrying out a number of activities based on these tasks. It is impossible to solve youth problems through the Youth Union of Uzbekistan alone. For this purpose, along with the ongoing reforms in our country, it is important to develop multilateral cooperation in the field of social support of the younger generation, protection of their rights and interests.
